Commencement

Hinds Community College hosted three commencement exercises during the 2012-2013 school year. Mississippi Representative John Moore and Dr. Lanell Kellum of the Mississippi Community College Board, both of Rankin County, addressed the summer 2012 graduates. The fall 2012 commencement featured speakers Dr. David Parks, a Clinton dentist, and Dr. Mae Cathryne Jackson, math instructor and curriculum coordinator at Hinds. Most recently, the spring 2013 graduates were challenged by Janet Harris, a veteran nurse and health administrator; State Senator John Polk and Dr. Robert Smith, area physician and health systems CEO. Hinds is proud of its graduates and looks forward to seeing the great work they will do in their professions and in their communities.

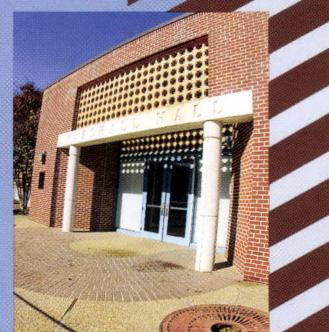

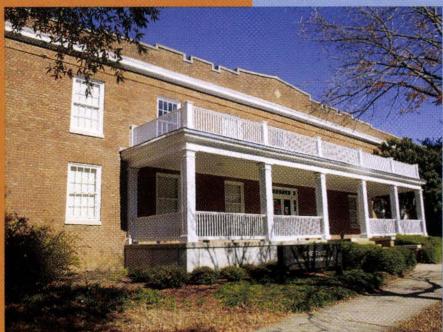

Residence Life

Housing and Residence Life focuses on providing a nurturing atmosphere for our students. Living on campus provides several advantages such as affordable accommodations, opportunities for campus involvement and the chance to participate in living/learning communities.

Hinds CCC Raymond campus has four women's halls, four men's halls, and one co-residential hall.

INTRAMURALS

Intramurals are a big part of student life at Hinds Community College. We offer more than 20 events over the course of the year. Each fall, students can participate in flag football, disc golf, the disc golf scramble, a 2-mile fun run, dodge ball, beach volleyball, the Pepsi 3-on-3 basketball tournament, the Pepsi 3-point shoot out and a punt/pass/kick competition. In the spring, more competition begins with 5-on-5 basketball, the Maroon vs.

Eagle All-Star game, team triathlon, ultimate Frisbee, another round of dodge ball, tennis, a golf scramble, swimming, disc golf, another disc golf scramble, softball and kickball.

New events this year were the Student Activities Challenges, which included game tournaments on the Xbox: Madden, NCAA Football, NBA basketball, Halo and NCAA basketball.

Winners from all sports were awarded a t-shirt, a water bottle and a chance at becoming the Hinds Eagle Cup Champion.

Lendon Players

In fall 2012, the Lendon Players put on the bittersweet comedy, Catfish Moon. It was written by native Mississippi playwright, Laddy Sartin. The entire play takes place on a fishing pier and chronicles the lives of four friends as they try to navigate life's complications of love, marriage, friendship, family and death. In April 2013, the Lendon Players performed the classic comedy Arsenic and Old Lace by Joseph Kesselring. It is a well-known show that achieved notable success when it debuted on Broadway in the early 1940s. Cary Grant helped it become even more well-known when he starred in the movie version in 1944. The plot turns on the young hero, Mortimer Brewster, accidentally discovering two things in the same day: 1) that his two, old, beloved, spinster sister aunts have developed the rather bad habit of poisoning lonely bachelors & burying their bodies in their cellar, and 2) that insanity runs in his family. Add a younger brother that thinks he's Teddy Roosevelt, an older brother who looks like Boris Karloff and four rowdy police officers to the mix and this makes for one hilarious screwball comedy.

2013 Yearbook Editor

The 2013 yearbook was truly a team effort, and this page will credit some of the special help that Hinds students, faculty and staff contributed to this year's production. The yearbook editor, Mindy Mullins, along with the other yearbook staff members worked many hours on the designing, photography, editing and submission process that goes into publishing a yearbook, and for that they deserve the first acknowledgment. A special thank you to Brian Emory for all the wonderful athletics photos. Allison Winn and Mark Stanton, thank you for your help with Student Activities and Intramurals photoGRAPHY. And thank you to David Hawkins for your many wonderful photos from various events.

Every eagle has a story, and we hope yours is cherished as you look back at the 2013 yearbook.
